Really good course, covered many topics, good amount of detail in each one. It was impressive how the trainer adapted to our level. Contents are great, it covers most of the stuff and it's very useful as an introduction. I really learn a lot on how to work with character devices although I'd have prefer to get into more details maybe with other type of driver. Pros: I liked the times when the instructor said "in my experience" and gave a clear recommendation on what has gone right and wrong in his real work. Improvement: Avoid too much slide per shot. blend more labs with the slides. It is als ...

How was the duration of the course?

1 -	Too short.	1	14%
2		1	14%
3		3	43%
4		1	14%
5 -	Definitely too long.	1	14%

Comments and suggestions

I think the duration was a little bit short for the amount of information that was presented. It would be more suitable for a two weeks time frame. It could be 2 weeks long to cover some points better. One week is fine. I wouldn't like to take a longer one. we need at least a week to practice all what we have learnt. I even suggest people read specific material (chapter, articles, not the slides!!) in advance Though the quality of the course was good, I felt a little bit saturated by the end.

How helpful was the lecture document?

Every question he had a good answer.

The instructor was knowledgeable and friendly.

Very knowledgeable, clearly had a lot of experience, was able to give good explanations and answer any questions.

Did instructor oral explanations add value to the lecture materials?

Very good to hear an experienced man like Jean There were a lot of slides so the instructor went through pretty fast, but I think this was necessary to get through the material. Also gave nice behind-the-scenes explanation of the linux community, and acting as a guide to the kernel and looking into the code on the projector was very interesting. Also we covered the git section the first days and cloned the git repo to get the kernel instead of downloading the tarball, this was a good idea.

How well did the instructor answer questions from the audience?

1 -	Poorly	0	0%

Unfortunately the only Linux Kernel module example I had done in the past was a character device so the I kind of knew how to do it. the lab material need to be improved and be comprehensive Very important part of the overall course, as doing just lectures would be monotonous. It was great to be routinely compiling the kernel with different configurations and going through the process of writing a driver.

How difficult were the training labs?

1 -	Too easy	0	0%

A good level, i think.

Was enough time dedicated to practical labs?

1 -	Definitely not enough	0	0%
2		2	29%
3		4	57%
4		1	14%
5 -	Definitely too much time for labs	0	0%

Comments and suggestions

Starting from easy labs and getting difficult, the time for the last ones was a bit short. The right balance I think, about 50/50 in both the morning and afternoon sessions.

How do you rate training conditions (room size, equipment, environment)?

1 -	Poor	0	0%

too much material ... 500 slides! Maybe a bit more explanation of block devices and how they differ from character devices would be good.

How useful should this course be in your daily job?

4		3	43%
5 -	Very useful.	1	14%

Comments and suggestions

Unfortunately I'm not doing any Linux Kernel development at the moment but I'll probably do it in the future a good starting step Use C/Linux all the time and sometimes have to do kernel work so it'll definitely be useful. Also have a personal interest in kernel and driver development.

Would you recommend this course to others?

What part(s) of the course did you like most?

Character device driver practical lab. I really enjoyed the labs, the notes were a great reference for completing these. Trainings. Build your own kernel driver and then make it better by using serial framework.

What part(s) of the course did you like least?

None really.

No More on Linux in general I would be interested more in improving the topics that were presented than on new topics. Block drivers could be covered but those are for another full course. Any other thing related with Linux real time Think the scope is fine the way it is.
