I had very little knowledge of PREMPT RT before the class and now I have a much better understanding of how it is useful and why it was created.

The demos were excellent to show how the presentation worked on the system. One thing I believe would be helpful is to add a sheet with all of the different command line tests that will be used during the labs. It may not be for everyone but in my case, I was sitting far from the projected screen and it was challenging to see and follow all of the options for the different tests. Having a printout of the test command lines with the options used in the lab on a separate sheet could be helpful for students to more easily follow along on their own systems.
